FATHER AND SON CONFESS TO MURDER OF SHARPLESS

Joseph Harrison, 70-year-old rural mail carrier, and his 17-year-old son, Walter, yesterday confessed to killing Walter Sharpless, former Bay County deputy sheriff, last Saturday, according to Robert Forrest, local identification expert, who returned last night from Panama City, where the two were held.

Forrest, who assisted Bay County authorities on the case, said the youth was the first to confess. He said the boy told how he shot Sharpless from an ambush beside a highway nine miles east of Panama City.

The elder Harrison admitted his guilt when confronted with the boy's story. He admitted planning the murder for revenge, it was stated.

Forrest said Harrison told of sending the boy to shoot Sharpless as revenge for a beating the former deputy gave him during an argument some time ago. The father also told how he took food to the youth as he waited in the ambush for Sharpless to pass, officers said.

Sharpless was shot in the face and shoulder with a charge of buckshot. He died instantly. He was returning to his home at Long Beach from Panama City when he was killed.

Sheriff Hobbs and his deputies attempted to trail the killers from the scene with bloodhounds Saturday night, but the woods had been fired in several places, preventing the dogs from finding the trail.

Forrest said Sheriff Hobbs and his two deputies were present when the two confessed. They were assisted in the investigation by John Black, night marshal and the chief of police of Panama City.

Harrison confessed, it was said, that once before he had lain in wait for Sharpless to pass along, intending to kill him then, but that there was another man with the Long Beach pavilion operator then and Harrison did not shoot.—Pensacola Journal (Thurs., May 28).

Mrs. Missouri Green Dies After Short Illness

Mrs. Missouri Green, wife of S. Z. (Sandy) Green, died at her home on Elba, Route 1, Tuesday morning, May 26, after an illness of ten days. Paralysis is said to have been the cause of her death.

Mrs. Green was born on November 15, 1862, and had been a lifelong resident of the county. She was well-known and has scores of friends who were deeply grieved at her passing.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. C. McCollough. Funeral services were held at Woodland Grove on Wednesday by Revs. B. S. Franklin and J. E. Plant. Burial was in Woodland Grove Cemetery. Elba Hardware & Furniture Company had charge of funeral arrangements.

LITTLE BOY DIES

Daniel Roy Ward, six-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Ward of Glenwood, Route 2, died on Monday afternoon, May 25, after a several-weeks illness. Besides his parents he leaves one sister and one brother. Burial occurred at St. Johns Cemetery, with Elba Hardware & Furniture Company in charge.

ELLIS-CLESSER

Mr. Pete Clesser and Miss Una Dell Ellis were quietly married on Tuesday afternoon, June 2nd. They will reside in the Big Creek community.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brooks and Miss Nell Griffis visited relatives in Geneva Sunday.

Messrs. Lloyd Wilson and Walter Whitman, Jr., visited in Defuniak Springs, Fla., last Thursday.

Mrs. Joe Blocker has returned to her home in Montgomery after a delightful visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Prescott.

Mr. Frank Rainer visited in Hayneville Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lallie Harper of Dothan spent Sunday in Elba with her sisters.

Scout Troop Hiked To Clark Hill To Camp Out

The Boy Scout Troop of Elba hiked to Clark Hill on the Opp highway on last Thursday evening on a camping trip. Reaching their destination about eight o'clock, the boys pitched camp and ate supper, after which a number of interesting games were played. A few jokes and spooky stories were related by various members of the group.

In the wee sma' hours of the night the troop engaged in their devotional, after which each Scout wrapped imself in his blanket to escape the presence of insects and to add to the comfort of his bed of earth, and all were soon in the land of pleasant dreams.

Early Friday morning the boys were up searching for anything that might have been left over from the evening meal. In a surprisingly short time all were packed and on the march, and within an hour the troop was again in Elba, tired, sleepy, hungry, but happy. The following boys made the trip:

Robert Cooper, Louie Deal, Phil Mitchell, Kimmie Dorsey, Coleman Ham, Marion Lubert, Donald Jackson, Joe Crook, Jack Lee, Edd Clark, Macon Miller, Ben Mathis, Billy Perdue, Rev. L. W. Tubb and H. C. Bryan.

James Atchley Passes Away At Almshouse

Mr. James A. Atchley, 58 years of age, passed away at the Coffee County almshouse here Monday morning at eight o'clock. Heart trouble is said to have caused his death, and he had been ill for several months. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Atchley.

Burial occurred at Rosin Ridge Cemetery, with Elba Hardware & Furniture Company in charge.

Bank To Close On Thursday Afternoon

Beginning today, June 4, and continuing throughout the Summer, we will begin observing the Thursday half-holidays, and the bank will not be open for business after noon. Please transact your business on Thursday morning, as we will be closed on Thursday afternoons.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

MRS. JAKE MORROW ENTERTAINS S. S. CLASS—

Mrs. Jake Morrow was hostess to the Euzelian Sunday School class of the Baptist church on Monday night at the home of Mrs. Fulton Clark.

A number of games and contests were entered into by those in attendance. After this a short business meeting was held.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess served a delightful salad course.

The Euzelian class will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Forest Talbot on Monday night, June 11.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS—

The Epworth Hi League held its regular monthly business meeting at the church on Saturday night, May 23rd. After a short devotional program the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Evelyn Bryan.
Vice-President—Louie Deal.
Secretary—Roscoe Deal.
Treasurer—Robert Cooper.

The League was divided into prayer circles to meet during the week to pray for the success of our coming revival meeting.

Y. W. A.'S MET WITH MRS. FRANKLIN—

The Y. W. A.'s met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Franklin

Prayer—Mrs. Ellis Franklin.

Business meeting presided over by the Vice-President, Louise Tucker.

Reading of the minutes.

Lesson taught in Mission Book, "Ming-Kwong"—Mrs. Franklin.

Dismissed by Mrs. Franklin.

There were thirteen members and two visitors present.

Our attendance has been rather small for the last two or three weeks, but we hope to have 100 per cent attendance next Tuesday night and ask that each member make a special effort to be present.

METHODIST MEETING TO BEGIN SUNDAY MORNING AT 11

REV. J. FLETCHER McLEOD

Revival services will start at the Methodist Church in Elba Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock, June 7th. Services will be held twice daily, at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m., closing Friday night, June 12.

Rev. J. Fletcher McLeod, presiding elder of the Troy District, will do the preaching. He is an unusually able preacher and has had lots of experience as an evangelist. In fact, he is known thruout the Alabama Conference as one of its strongest ministers. Blessed with a magnetic personality, he possesses the happy faculty of being able to hold the attention of his audience to a marked degree while he delivers a profound and convincing message.

It is expected that all of the Elba churches will cooperate in the services and a spirited and helpful revival is anticipated.

ROYAL AMBASSADORS MET ON MONDAY NIGHT—

The R. A.'s held their regular meeting Monday night. The meeting was opened with a song by the class and scripture was read by Sam Collier, followed by sentence prayers.

Jake Bonneau, Chief Ambassador, presided over the meeting and Lloyd Prescott, Recorder, served at his regular place.

Fifteen members were present at this meeting. Two new members were accepted.

Miss Zadie Rowe taught a very impressive lesson on missions. The boys voted to have Miss Rowe meet with them twice a month.

Following this the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Leroy Maddox.

BETSY ROSS CLUB MET WITH MISS JACKSON—

The Betsy Ross Club for girls met at the home of Miss Gladys Jackson on Thursday afternoon of last week.

A short business meeting was held, followed by a well-rendered and interesting program.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess served a delicious ice course to five charter members.

Great interest is being shown in this club. It s progressing rapidly, and it is hoped, with the full cooperation of the members, that it will be in full swing in a very short length of time.

JOINT BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED—

Wilma Daniels, D. L. Padgett and Lavelle Freeman.

Mrs. H. W. Rainey and little daughter, Betty Kate, of Camden were guests of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Crook the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bonneau and children, Miss Hazel, Corrinne and Jake, are attending the Confederate reunion in Montgomery this week.

Rev. and Mrs. B. S. Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whitman attended the fifth Sunday meeting of the Coffee County Baptist Association at Curtis Sunday.

Editor Receives Letter From The Almshouse

Hello Folks:

Guess you all are busy—some at one thing and some at another. We are not doing very much—about all we can do is to give advice. This is a good place to get information.

You farmers just subscribe for The Clipper and take Farmer Jones' advice, and you wives just follow Mrs. Jones' plans, and there won't be so many at the county almshouse and the Red Cross won't have to care for so many.

This is about all the advice I can give you folks this week.

I was told some time past that the country churches were about dead, that times were so hard. But that won't do for Bradshaw community. The S. S. superintendent, vice-superintendent and choir leader came up to the almshouse Sunday with some forty-five or more of their pupils, to hold their fifth Sunday lesson with us. We did not have class room for them, so they held a song and prayer service. Bro. Tup Donaldson gave a short talk. I almost forgot to say that they brought an organ along They told me that they had seventy some odd enrolled.

Now, no church will die with a Sunday School like that. We sure enjoyed the evening, and trust that it will be God's will for them to visit us again in the near future.

You know that Christ told Peter to feed his sheep and if some one don't bring and explain God's word to us we would not hear very much. —AN INMATE.

Mrs. Polly Lee returned to Elba Monday after an extended visit to her son, Walter Lee, in Evergreen.

DOTHAN FLOGGERS PLEAD GUILTY AND DRAW SENTENCES

DOTHAN, June 2.—Six men, indicted for murder for the slaying of Wes Skipper, 40-year-old tenant farmer, during a visit to his home to flog him, Monday entered pleas of guilty to manslaughter in Houston Circuit Court and drew sentences of from five to 10 years in the State penitentary at Montgomery.

Fred McCrary, whom officers said was charged by his five companions with firing the shot that killed Skipper, was sentenced to 10 years in the State prison. The other five men, John M. Pippin, Althus Rice, Jonah Newton, Shelly Barber and Sede Barton, each were sentenced to five years imprisonment.

Officers said the six men admitted going to the Skipper home on the night of February 9 to flog him "because he was so sorry," and that during an argument he was shot. McCrary denied the charges of the other five that he shot Skipper, declaring the shot rang out as he struck the dead man.

Skipper was shot at 10 o'clock at night and died the following day. Mrs. Skipper was taken into custody after she told officers three men whom she could not identify called her husband to the door and shot hom. She was released after McCrary, a neighbor, and the other five were indicted.

Mrs. Sue Gunter, matron at the University of Alabama, has arrived in Elba to spend the Summer months with her mother, Mrs. Polly Lee.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

I may be an old blunder bust of a husband, but I am a pretty good guesser as to what women will do. I thought I knew what was going to happen last Sunday and I was exactly right about it. Sallie would have us go out to the cross roads church and just as I expected, she invited the preacher home with us to dinner and he accepted so quickly until it really embarrassed the preacher. Now, I like preachers and I like for them to go home with us on Sunday for dinner, but we had not had a preacher in our home in so long until I really felt a little shy when he was around. I always heard that a Baptist preacher could eat the chicken and a Methodist preacher could eat the the cake, but that rule will not work every time. Sallie had three nice young chickens fried for dinner and that Methodist preacher ate so much that he was ashamed of the pile of bones and then he set in on the livers and gizzards. It might be that he likes cake just as well, but when Sallie got around with the cake that preacher had already folded his arms. I think Sallie really enjoyed having the preacher and his wife with us, but it is going to take me a few weeks to get back to my raising. After dinner we all went out and looked things over. You should have heard that preacher brag on what we have. That old sow and ten pigs caught his eye and we never did show him anything that appealed to him as they did. His wife enjoyed the chickens, turkeys, the garden and the cows. I really believe they enjoyed themselves, and too, the preacher just had to take a lot of exercise on account of all that fried chicken he ate for dinner. He walked all over our farm before he left. I was really glad when they left, as I wanted to do some sure enough resting and I could not do it walking all over the place. I want them to come back when we are better up with the work. Just as soon as they left I made a bet with Sallie and I am going to win, too. I bet her that the presiding elder would eat dinner with us the next time he comes if we ask him to. I want him to come, all right, provided I can get a few things to wear. My clothes are all worn out and I am trying to go through without buying any more. We got the money, all right, to buy some clothes with, but I am not going to ask Sallie to let me check it out for clothes. I can get me some clothes this Fall when I sell my hogs. Looks like we are going to get back to civilization, even if times are hard for these old cotton farmers.

* * *

I certainly did appreciate that nice letter in the paper last week by Mrs. L. F. Young. I say that Mr. and Mrs. Lucious Young are just as good folks as the Lord made in this section of the country. If you don't believe they live at home, just go out there and open your eyes and look around a little.

* * *

Sallie and the children want to go up to Montgomery some time this week and see the Confederate Veterans while they are up there in their reunion. I want to go and I don't want to go. They say this might be the last reunion they will have and that makes me want to go, but when I look at our old Ford and these old clothes of mine I am ashamed to go. They tell me that the City of Montgomery is doing big things for the old soldiers, and I guess I had better go. My wife and children are as good as yours and I see no reason why they cannot enjoy a few of the good things. If they want us to wear our old clothes and go on our old car I am going to do it. If we were just common cotton farmers we might not be so brave, but we have quit that crowd and we are a little braver than we used to be. If I can go to the city and get back without getting run over I may try to tell you a little about what we see and how we get along. I know we are going to get laughed at, and I know we are going to do a lot of fool things, but we are going to take our dinner with us and we will have plenty of good things to eat, if they do laugh at us. After we get straightened out we are going to go about more and learn more about how to act.

* * *

By the way, Eugene Grimes and Button Grimes slipped off up to Montgomery the other day and bought a whole lot of fine Jersey yearlings. They bought four and they are all from one of the best herds in the State. You had better keep an eye on those boys. You can soon buy registered calves from merit cows right here in Coffee County. When you put good cows in the hands of good men you may look for good results and I am watching these two boys.

MISS TUCKER HOSTESS AT PORCH PARTY—

Miss Kathryn Hutchison of Troy was the guest of honor at a porch party given by Miss Louise Tucker at her home on Thursday afternoon. An attractive arrangement of pot plants and cut flowers made a pretty setting for this delightful party.

Bridge was the diversion for the afternoon, after which the hostess served an elaborate salad plate to Misses Kathryn Hutchison, Nell Brock, Ethel Louise Mitchell, Hilda Stephens, Doris Whitman, Sara Shealy, Madaline Strain, Sara Mathis and Sara Lee.

Mrs. Joe Joyner (Annie Merle Calhoun) of Springfield, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clifton Payne, in Elba.

Miss Ethel Louise Mitchell visited relatives in Montgomery the first of the week.

Miss Minnie Pearce has returned home from Camden, where she spent a week as a guest of Mrs. H. W. Rainey.

Mrs. C. P. Hayes is visiting relatives in Cairo, Ga., this week.

Miss Helen Maddox of New Brockton is a guest of Miss Cleo Maddox this week.

Green Feed For Poultry Needed

Green feed is an essential part of the poultry ration and the best way to obtain green feed is to produce it at home. Continuing on this subject, H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, said that nutritional troubles (similar to roup) which are common are caused by a lack of vitamin A in the ration. This vitamin is found in green feed. Hence the disease can be prevented by including plenty of green feed in the ration, he added.

Although green feed can be grown the entire year in every county of the State, poultrymen are frequently confronted with a shortage of this feed, due largely to the failure on their part to make provisions for such feed, Mr. Bailey said.

Soybeans are an excellent summer green feed in Alabama. Although it is better to plant them in April or May, they may be planted in early June. The Laredo variety is recommended because it produces fine stems and has a long growing period. The plants should become six to eight inches before grazed by poultry. Cowpeas may be used as a green crop, although chickens do not relish them as a rule.

"When conditions are such," continued Mr. Bailey, "that the growing of sufficient green feed is difficult, it is necessary to supply some substitute in its place. Alfalfa meal mixed in with the laying mash is the most common substitute used. The amount used should be in excess of 10 per cent of the ration used. A good grade af alfalfa hay fed in small racks is also good.

"Sprouted oats make a good but rather expensive green feed. When used they should be fed when the sprout is from one-half to one inch in length. Feed about one gallon of germinated oats to each 100 hens daily."

Girl Is Fatally Shot Near Panama City

PANAMA CITY, Fla., June 2.—While shooting with a small shotgun at birds in some bushes, Jewett Thomas, 21-year-old young woman, accidentally killed Mabel Harrison, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gid Thomas of Gainer, Fla., late yesterday, it was reported here today. Gainer is 18 miles north of Panama City.

Miss Thomas and the little Harrison girl had been shooting sparrows and the latter had started to return to her home when the fatal shooting occurred, according to reports received here.

Miss Thomas did not see the Harrison girl as she fired at the birds in the bushes, it was said. The girl was in the range of the bullets however, and fell, mortally wounded, from the shot which passed through the bushes, according to witnesses at the shooting.

Sheriff O. E. Hobbs of Panama City was called to the scene of the shooting. After an investigation, it was decided that the shooting was accidentatl and that no coroner's inquest would be necessary.

The Harrison girl and Miss Thomas had been shooting the birds with the 400-gauge shotgun before the former was accidentlly wounded, witnesses said.

Mrs. Clara Sutley Dies After A Short Illness

Mrs. Clara Sutley, wife of Jim Sutley, died at the family home on Elba, Route 5, last Thursday afternoon. She was ill only two days, suffering from a kidney trouble.

Mrs. Sutley is survived by her husband and nine children, two boys and seven girls. Two sons had preceded her to the grave. She also leaves a number of other relatives.

Burial occurred on Friday at New Home Cemetery, with Elba Hardware & Furniture Company in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Jule Sanders, who has been in Montgomery for some time, returned to Elba Monday.

Miss Gussie Boyette of New Brockton was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brooks on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. Jep Taylor, student at the University of Alabama, is spending a few days with relatives in Elba. He will return to University the last of the week to enter the Summer school.

Jesse Byrd was a guest of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Marley, in Elba the first of the week, en route to Troy from his home in Georgiana. He will attend Summer school in Troy.

Miss Nan Marley left the first of the week to enter Summer school at Womans College, Montgomery. She has been carrying two courses since she began her college work, and would have finished in 1929 had she not stopped to teach one year. Miss Marley says she enjoys her work, even though it is heavy. She will be missed by her family and friends.

THOUSANDS AT THE LAST REUNION OF THE CONFEDERACY

MONTGOMERY, June 2.—Gen. L. W. Stephens of Coushatta, La., commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans standing on the spot where 70 years ago Jefferson Davis took the oath as President of the Confederacy, today received from Gov. Miller the key to Alabama and welcome of his army.

"Gen. Stephens," said Gov. Miller, after leading the general to the star on the Capitol portico, "you are standing on the hallowed spot, and it gives me great pleasure to welcome you and your men to Alabama."

As Gen. Stephens' train rolled in cannon boomed a 16-gun salute while veterans clad in gray stood at attention on the Capitol lawn. Along the line of march from the station to the Capitol the streets were flanked with thousands who tendered the general an ovation. Many pilgrimages were made to Confederate shrines. Scouts numbering more than 1,000 from Southern States were reviewed by the Governor.

The Confederate Memorial Association opened its 32nd reunion with an executive sesson.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A statue of the only President of the Confederacy was accepted by the federal government today from his native Mississippi. The bronze figure of the statesman was placed in Statuary Hall along with that of J. Z. George, another soldier senator and hero from that State and near the statues of noted men from other states.

The unveiling ceremonies included addresses by Senators Harrison and Stephens of Mississippi.

MONTGOMERY, June 2.—The Alabama Legislature is in recess until one week from today out of deference to the Confederate veterans in annual reunion here. The movement to recess until next week originated in the Senate, was adopted, but in the House there was considerable discussion before it was adopted.

There was little legislation of general nature enacted in either house at yesterday's session, both centering on clearing the calendars of local bills before the eight-day recess.

The House ways and means committee voted to report two bills levying a tax on natural gas without recommendation.

Florala Woman Is Killed By Self-Inflicted Wounds

FLORALA, Ala., June 2.—Mrs. Ferrin Young, wife of a Florala physician, died yesterday afternoon of gunshot wounds inflicted early in the day, which, according to information which Coroner J. M. Thomas said he had received were self-inflicted. The coroner said he would investigate tomorrow.

The wounds were said to have been inflicted while Mrs. Young was in bed.

Mrs. Ridgeway Boyd and Mrs. W. M. Ringsdorf spent Monday in Montgomery.

Prof. and Mrs. Jas. C. Dixon and family left Tuesday morning for Hartselle, where they will spend the Summer.

Mr. W. M. Brunson spent Tuesday in Enterprise, looking after business interests.

Mesdames Jim Whitman, Sam Rowe, and William Bullard visited in Enterprise Monday afternoon

Prof. W. A. Eidson, superintendent of the New Brockton schools, was a visitor in Elba Tuesday.

Mrs. Tom Hutchison and children have returned from Monroeville, where they visited Mrs. Hutchison's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Ellis and son, Alpheus, of the Brooklyn community visited friends and relatives in Elba Monday.

Messrs. Baxter Bryan, Sam Young, Fountain Lee and Robert Lee were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Lee and family in Panama City, Fla., last Sunday.

Prominent Workers On Church Program

Names of men and women who are prominent in the affairs of Alabama appear on the program of the Rural Church Conference to be held at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, June 21-26.

The program has been printed and is being distributed. The visitors, who will include ministers and others interested in rural church and problems, will be welcomed to Auburn by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of Auburn, will preside as general chairman.

Two Alabama bishops have accepted places on the program. They are the Right Reverend Wm. G. McDowell, Jr., bishop of the Alabama Diocese, Episcopal Church, Birmingham; and Bishop Wm. N. Ainsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Birmingham. Dr. Relvix Harlan, head of the department of rural sociology and social ethics, University of Richmond, will be present and participate in the program.

Others whose names are listed are Dr. J. N. Baker, State health officer; Dr. A. R. Harman, State superintendent of education; Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture and industries; Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational education; Mrs. Alf Tunstall, director of child welfare work; Dean M. J. Funchess of the school of agriculture and director of the experiment station, Auburn; Miss Helen Johnston, State home demonstration agent, Auburn; Mrs. J. D. Giles, president, Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs; J. L. Liles, county agent for Jefferson County, Birmingham; and others.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS OF COFFEE COUNTY

The County Board of Review of Coffee County will sit at Elba next week, beginning Tuesday, for the purpose of hearing those who have filed a protest against the tax value as fixed by the board.

The Secretary of the board has requested that you come before the board on certain days and I am going to ask that you come to Elba on certain days, according to the beat you live in.

All those living in beats 18, 1, 14 and 23 are requested to come to Elba on Tuesday, June 9th, and appear before the board.

All those living in beats 20, 2, 19 and 16 are requested to come to Elba on Wednesday, June 10, and appear before the board.

All those living in beats 6, 3, 4, 5, 21, and 22 are requested to come to Elba on Thursday, June 11th, and appear before the board.

All those living in beats 15, 10, and 11 are requested to come to Elba on Friday, June 12th, and appear before the board.

Any case can be taken up on any day, but the above arrangements have been suggested, as it will make the work lighter and will also enable neighbors to come together. If you come on some other day, other than the one set for your beat, your case can be taken up.

If you have not filed a protest it will not do any good for you to come, while all those who have filed protests should come.

W. M. BRUNSON, County
Chairman for Tax Reduction Committee.

Singing At Liberty Church Next Sunday

There will be a singing at Liberty Church next Sunday, June 7. The song service will begin at 9 a.m., followed by preaching at 11 o'clock. The Cokesbury Hymnal will be the book used.

Everybody is invited. All singers are especially invited to come and bring their books.

Mr. Walter Lee of Evergreen visited in Elba Monday.

Mr. Irving Johnston of Dadeville and Miss Wallace Johnson of Opelika were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brooks Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Owen and Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Heath of Dozier spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Bullard. Little Betty Jean Bullard accompanied them home and is spending the week at Dozier.

AIDING FARM WOMEN

In a bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture a striking illustration of the benefits of labor-saving machinery on the farm and in the farm home was given.

Among the devices particularly recommended by the department is the power washing machine, which is doing so much to afford the farm woman relief from the drudgery which has heretofore fallen to her lot.

By inducing an Ohio woman to wear a pedometer, a device which registers the number of steps taken and thus the number of miles walked, it was found that with an electrical washer and iron, and running water in the home, she performed the weekly washing and ironing with only four and a half miles of walking. Without this equipment she would have walked nearly 12 miles, to say nothing of the strain on back and arms.

Innumerable other items of electrical equipment for the home are available, whereby the wearisome tasks of housewives are lightened, with a consequent conservation of health and beauty. No man who really loves his wife will fail to provide for her all the labor-saving equipment of this kind which she may need and which he can reasonably afford.

RAILWAY SAFETY

In contrast with the ever increasing number of automobile deaths, fatal accidents to passengers on railways of the country have dwindled almost to the vanishing point, due to better equipment and the greater exercise of safety precautions.

Based on the experience of a leading transcontinental railroad, a passenger could travel around the world 2,400 times without an accident, and many times that far without being killed.

Safety measures have achieved even greater comparative results with respect to railroad employees. A reduction of 27 per cent in the number of casualties to railroad workers was attained in a single year. It is figured that on an average one of these would be able to work 120 years for each accident that would happen to him.

At present, it is pointed out by a recent writer, railroading is safer than banking or any other important calling. A passenger on a railroad train is safer than he would be sitting in his own home or attending the movies. Many large systems go a whole year without killing a passenger.

Nowadays, the dangers of travel are confined almost exclusively to the deadly motor car.

WASTE IN ADVERTISING

This is an age of advertising. Business could not get along without it. Yet many merchants waste a large share of the money they think they are spending for advertising and wonder why they do not get better results.

Women do most of the buying for the home. Now, did you ever see a woman go looking over the billboards, or reading the movie screen advertisements in order to make up her mind what or where to buy! Does she get her shopping information from a theatre program or a telephone directory? Not on your life.

Outside of the store itself, the best and almost the only way to attract a prospective customer's attention to what you have to sell is through the newspaper that goes into the home. The store that advertises adequately and persistently in its local newspapers has no need to waste money on the other inferior medium mentioned.

GENUINE PHILLIPS MILK OF MAGNESIA For Troubles due to Acid INDIGESTION ACID STOMACH HEARTBURN HEADACHE GASES-NAUSEA

Reduce the Acid

SICK stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated.

Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. For 50 years the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians in correcting excess acids.

PLAN FOR EMERGENCY

More and more we find cities and towns giving much thought to planning for the future with a view to the permanency of improvements made. Communities are ever growing and extending, and provision must be made for the orderly development of new areas, so that their residents may have modern and permanent facilities for their health and comfort.

A most important feature of any city plan is the means adopted to insure adequate and dependable supplies of water, gas and electricity. In providing for the distribution of these necessities the full development of the area should be kept in mind. Above all, the inconvenience and expense of re-excavation of the streets should be avoided.

Laying of mains should not only be carefully planned, but they should be of the most durable material. When a certain French engineer installed a cast iron main to carry the water to the fountains of Versailles 267 years ago, he adapted an old material to a new use, and the world is still benefiting by his foresight and knowledge.

Today in our older cities there are mains beyond the century mark in age. Their cast iron pipe that our great-grandfathers laid so carefully is still giving satisfactory service. Such installations should be made in our new communities in the interest of permanency, and they would also prove more economical in the long run.

ALIMONY PLUS

While a good many men may pay larger sums as alimony the plight of an actor named Cummins in Los Angeles, who is contributing rather promiscuously as a result of unfortunate matrimonial ventures, places him at the head of his class.

Under a court decree Cummins was ordered some months ago to pay $600 a month to his divorced wife. Notwithstanding this, he married again and is now being sued for divorce by wife No. 2. Pending the outcome of the suit, he must pay the second wife alimony at the rate of $230 a month.

But that is not all. The latest Mrs. Cummins has no children, but she possesses two valuable dogs which are her joy and pride. She insisted that they should be provided for, also. The judge concurring, an additional $45 a month was assessed against Cummins for the support of the canines. So he is now contributing a total of $875 a month to provide the necessities and luxuries of life for two women and two dogs, without the benefit of the companionship of either.

Can you beat that for hard luck?

THE ANTIQUE SWINDLE

An amusing incident is reported from the New York custom house, where a wealthy American sought to bring from Europe a shipment of "antique" furniture under the duty free provisions of the tariff law.

Government appraisers questioned the genuineness of the furniture and assessed the regular duty. The owner protested and had experts called in to give their opinions as to whether the furniture was more than 100 years old, as had been represented by European dealers. These experts agreed with the government officials that the furniture was less than 25 years old. Thus the "easy" purchaser found that he had been swindled and had to pay the duty besides.

This illustrates the gullibility of many Americans who ransack Europe for "antiques," often paying fabulous prices for stuff that has been manufactured expressly for this sucker trade.

BUGS WITH NEW HEADS

One of the most interesting biological experiments recently noted is that of gratfing the heads of one kind of a bug on the bodies of another, a feat accomplishment by a German scientist, as reported by the Associated Press.

It is said that when the head of a beetle was grafted on the body of a June bug it tried to burrow in refuse matter and made no effort to fly, while the reverse experiment caused a beetle with a June bug's head to try to climb a tree. When a female head was grafted on the body of a male insect of the same species, its actions became characteristic of the female, and vise versa.

Certain insects are said to be well adapted to such experiments, as they can live for considerable time after decapitation, because their organs of breathing are distributed over their whole bodies.

Possibly some day scientists will prove the fallacy of the saying: "You must not expect old heads on young shoulders."

WIRELESS IN AFRICA

Recent advances by the science of wireless telegraphy are making it possible to abolish distance in the French African colony of Cameroon, in one of the few regions of the world which have still to be explored completely.

A full system of wireless communications now exists in this part of West Africa, a twelfth wireless telegraph station having been put in operation by the local authorities a few weeks ago. Short-wave transmission is being employed.

At the same time, a system of two-way wireless connections has been established between the Cameroon and the group of colonies comprising French Equatorial Africa. This system handles both official and private messages.

These two steps represent completion of the essential features of a program first instituted fifteen years ago and indicate how wireless telegraphy has been combined with airplane services to permit rapid communications in an undeveloped portion of the globe.

A LAUDABLE WORK

Among the many humanitarian activities which engage the support of benevolent societies and individuals, the restoring of crippled children to health and happiness is one of the most commendable.

The work of modern surgeons in this connection is effective almost beyond belief. At a recent convention of the International Society for Crippled Children it was stated that "modern science has healed all manner of diseases and we are happy to say today that practically every type of malformation, if taken in early childhood, can be cured."

Among the organizations which have given special attention to crippled children, the Shriners have been particularly active, each member of the order contributing regularly to the maintenance of homes for these unfortunate little ones, who would otherwise go thru life with deformed bodies and limbs. Other societies are doing a similar service.

The hearty encouragement and support of this labor of love should be extended by every person who is in a position to lend a hand.

Joint Birthday Anniversaries Celebrated With Big Dinner

On the 5th Sunday in May a birthday dinner was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lunsford in honor of our children, Pauline and Geraldine Talbot, Joel Lunsford and Wesley Lunsford and wife.

All of their birthdays being in May, it was decided to combine all into one big celebration on the 5th Sunday.

At about 10 o'clock our relatives and friends began to arrive and soon there was quite a crowd assembled: some from Elba, Damascus, Bradshaw and Columbus, Ga. At about 10:30 a good many of us gathered at the church near by for Sunday School, after which we returned home.

At noon two large tables were placed in the yard under the "big oaks," and soon they were filled to overflowing with the "best the market affords." You ask what we served? Why, bless your souls, we had everything that was good: Vegetables of all kinds, chicken in various ways, and cake—oh, boy! the best on earth! Everybody enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

We all hope to be permitted to meet again a year hence and enjoy another such occasion.

JIM TALBOT,

Matchless economy with six-cylinder smoothness

"Better than 20 miles to the gallon." "Its cost-per-mile is the lowest of any car." "Never have to add oil between crankcase changes." "Drove from Ohio to California on a repair expense of $1.05." "It just runs and runs and runs."

—typical comments from owners of the Chevrolet Six

Chevrolet's 152" frame supports the body throughout its entire length

Why is it that Chevrolet—a big, powerful, smooth-running six—actually costs less to operate and maintain than any other car you can buy? The answer lies in five outstanding factors of Chevrolet economy:

1. Efficient Engine Design makes Chevrolet fuel consumption so low that 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is nothing unusual for a Chevrolet owner.

2. Modern Chassis Design—as evidenced by Chevrolet's long heavy frame, four parallel-mounted springs, and smooth-running six-cylinder engine—increases the ability of the Chevrolet Six to run dependably, day after day.

3. Excellence of Manufacture also adds to Chevrolet dependability and long life. Chevrolet pistons, for instance, are built so carefully, and held true to such close limits of precision, that many owners have gone 20,000 miles or more without having their motors opened for major servicing.

Chevrolet's pistons are built to close limits of precision

4. High-Quality Materials are used throughout the Chevrolet car—costly nickel steel, chrome-vanadium steels, chrome-nickel steels—to assure trouble-free, low-cost service for tens of thousands of miles.

5. Economical Nationwide Service, with its low flat-rate charges on labor and genuine parts, is available at 10,000 dealers throughout the country, who also offer the protection of the most liberal owner's service policy ever to back a low-priced car.

Chevrolet's Owner's Service Policy is the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced car

Remember—in addition to all these basic economies—Chevrolet offers the extra dollars-and-cents advantage of one of the lowest delivered prices on the market. And this cost may be spread over a period of many months by the liberal G.M.A.C. plan.

TIGER EYE

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT

The kid's face was bleak and old when he turned from the bed and Nellie's mother kneeling beside it, her arms thrown out and her arms clutching her dead with the tensity of despair. Nellie was holding herself calm in spite of her horror. The kid saw her in the kitchen, dipping water into the wash-basin on the bench beside the back door. But as he went out to wash her father's life blood from his hands, he remembered her words and halted, looking at her strangely.

"What call have yoh got to think I done it?" he demanded. "He was shot in the back, from somewheah up awn the hill. I was awn the road coming along by the old stack. Yo'all can go look at the hawse tracks and see foh yo'se'f."

"I don't have to. I know what made me say that. Mr. — I know you didn't do it."

"Reeves," said the kid, flushing a little. "Bob Reeves is my name, Miss—"

"Murray," said the girl, and put up a hand to smooth her hair. "What shall we do?" She bit her lips, fighting back tears, and the color crept into her cheeks as she met the kid's grave look.

"I'll stay heah, Miss Murray, while yo'all go foh help. I'd go myse'f, but I couldn't do no good. Some nestah would try and shoot me foh a Poole ridah, I reckon. If theah's a hawse yo'all can ride—"

"I could ride Prince, but he's up in the pasture, and he's awful mean to catch."

"I reckon I can get 'im. My hawse is plumb foolish ovah any ridah but me, or I'd let yo'all take him."

"No, you'll have to be ready to go before any one gets here. Prince is the sorrel with one white eye. Oh, hurry!"

He rode into the pasture and roped the sorrel with the white eye, found a sidesaddle and put it on with meticulous care.

The girl looked at him, toward the cabin where her mother was weeping in great, heavy, heartbreaking sobs.

"I'm—we're much obliged, Mr. Reeves. You—you always come when I—when we need help. Promise you won't stay till they come back with me."

"I promise to go—but I kain't promise I won't come back."

He watched her ride off at a gallop, her gingham skirt whipping out beside the sorrel's flanks, her yellow braid swinging in the breeze.

His glance fell then to the trampled dirt under his feet, and the bleak look returned to his face. He turned and scanned the ridge. Its side was mostly brushy and with a stunted tree growing here and there, but at the top there was a rough outcropping of brown sandstone with rock slabs tilted this way and that.

The kid was sure the killer had waited behind those rocks; just as sure as if he had seen him there. But he didn't go up right then to prove it. He went into the house instead and stood with his hat in his hand, looking down at the dead man and at the woman huddled on the floor beside the bed.

The kid stood looking down at her for a minute.

He took the two tin water buckets and followed a path from the back door to spring, and brought back fresh water. She looked at him then; looked at him long before she took the glass and drank.

"You're a good boy," she said. "Where's Nellie?" She stared around her.

The kid told he. She did not seem to listen, but returned to her weeping. The kid wished she wouldn't cry like that; she sounded so much like his mother when Pap lay on the bed under a sheet. Killers oughta be made to sit and listen to the widows of the men they shoot in the back.

The kid turned on the doorstep and leaned his head in at the doorway.

"Goodbye, Ma'am," he called softly. "Reckon I'll have to be goin' now."

"Goodbye," she answered brokenly. "Look out for them Poole killers that they don't get you."

"Shoah will," said the kid. Promised Nellie he'd go. Somehow it made a bond between them which the kid would never break. He was going to hunt down the killer, because it was Nellie's old pappy he had shot.

Insolence leered up at the kid from every boot mark behind the tilted slabs of rock. The killer had not even tried to scuff out his tracks with a sidewise drag of the foot.

The kid's eyes were seeking here and there. Killer as careless as this—and as sure of Poole protection—'pears like he might leave some sign more than boot tracks.

"You always come when I—we—need help," the girl told him.

Been smoking up here, too.

The kid's thoughts halted as abruptly as his body. Even his heart stopped dead still in his chest; or at least it felt as if it had. The blood froze in his veins so that his face had a pinched, old look. He bent stiffly with a slow reluctance, utterly unlike himself, and picked up something here, over here another something, and he stood up, looking at them in the palm of his hand.

Two peices of broken match! Two pieces fitting together—match snapped in the fingers and dropped. Babe! Babe, a Poole killer!

Bushwhacking nesters from behind rocks; that's what he was doing. Playing the kid for a sucker. Lay on the bunk, pretending he was reading storybooks all evening—hell! Lay there planning how he'd go out next morning and drygulch some poah devil of a nester, that's what. Babe!

Pecos had to use his horse sense and take the full responsibility of getting back up on Big Bench, for the kid just climbed into the saddle—his foot fumbling like a drunken man's for the stirrup—and rode unseeingly away from that hellish spot, where he had the fair face of friendship blacken and shrink to a grinning death's-head before him.

He ought to have known, that first day. He ought to have seen that Babe Garner had fired that rifle shot not to save the kid's life, but because he wanted to make certain Nate Wheeler was dead.

Up on the Bench there the other day, riding over to talk to Jess Markel, Babe lied and the kid knew he lied—and then had to go and swallow what Babe told him about that talk. Babe more'n likely told Jess all about Tiger Eye Reeves, and helped Jess plan how he could get him. Damn' fool—let Babe lie him blind. A cold-blooded killer like that!

Kill the kid some of these days, more'n likely.

He remembered the look on Babe's face as he stood outside the Poole mess house, watching Jess Markel go by with his bandaged hands.

Babe had lighted a cigarette. He snapped the match in two—like these pieces, here in the kid's palm—and looked at the kid and said he'd rather be dead than crippled like that.

The kid's clenched hands rested on the saddle horn and his head was bowed, his cleft chin resting on the soft folds of his silk neckerchief. His eyer were staring. He saw Babe, in a new and terrible guise.

He was seeing Babe standing by the kitchen table, looking down at his shattered knuckles, and he was hearing Babe say, "Put a bullet through my damn' brain, Tiger Eye! I'd rather be dead than like this." He was seeing a bullet hole turn bluish in Babe's forehead!

The kid started and looked around like one suddenly awakened from a nightmare. He was on the last slope of the ridge running up to the tiny walled-in basin where Babe's cabin stood snugly sheltered against a split peak.

He gave himself a little shake, snapped back to clear and pitiless thinking. He lifted his head, pursed his stiffened lips and whistled the signal of all Poole riders. Babe pulled open the door and stood there grinning as the kid rode up. The kid grinned back at Babe, but his eyes gave their warning. His blue left eye was squinting and the amber right eye was opened full and had the baleful stare of a tiger stalking his kill.

"Well, yuh made it ahead of the storm," Babe called cheerfully, as the kid swung down at the door. "'Fraid yuh might get caught out, Tiger Eye. Goin' to be a ripsnorter, when it gets here."

The kid turned and looked where a greenish-black cloud mass came coiling up from the southwest.

He brushed past him and went inside, turning to face Babe.

"What's the matter, Tger Eye? Anything happen?"

"Yes, suh. Right smaht happened, Babe. A nestah got killed."

Babe's cold gray eyes scrutinized the kid. He closed the door against a puff of wind, leaned his back against it, his thumbs hooked inside his cartridge belt. The kid's vivid picture of him revised itself in certain details with pitiless accuracy. Babe would not fall between the stove and table. He would topple over toward the bunk, more'n likely.

"Who was it, d'yuh know? Or maybe yuh ain't tellin'."

"Old Pappy Murray, shot in the back."

"Hunh. Well"— Babe hesitated "—he's a nester and a cow thief. He had it comin' Tiger Eye."

"He nevah had it comin' in front of his own doah. The killah cached himse'f behind a ledge up awn the hill. Left his boot tracks theah—and a rifle shell."

"Yeah? Well—"

"Left anotha sign, Babe."

"Yeah? What sign's that?"

"Left this, Babe." He opened his palm.

Babe looked, lifted his glance to the bleak face of the kid, and to that tiger stare of the yellow right eye. Babe's teeth caught at his underlip. His fingers quivered—but they did not go for his gun. They did not dare.

Interruption came. The shrill, whistled signal all Poole riders knew. Babe's eyes searched the kid's face. He turned his back, pulled open the door, answered the call.

"Supper ready, Babe?" The Poole foreman owned that voice.

Nothing would happen while he was there. Flag of truce.

Cards lay as they fell till the foreman left again. Meant to go, all right. Didn't unsaddle his horse—meant to ride on to the Poole soon as he had his supper and the storm was over. Straight, honest man, name of Joe Hale.

The foreman talked while he ate largely of the supper Babe had cooked. Babe talked too, but not very much. Knew he'd have to face it, soon as Joe Hale was gone. Shoah storming. So dark inside the kid got up and lighted the lamp.

The foreman emptied his third cup of coffee, wiped his mustache with his handkerchief, hitched the box seat two inches back, and drew his tobacco and papers from his pocket. Soon as he had his smoke going, he would get up and leave.

The foreman reached thumb and finger into the watch pocket of his vest, groped there, taking his time.

He finally drew a match from his pocket, looked at it, used it with little stabbing motions in the air to point his meaning while he talked to Babe. Gosh, did he always talk that-a-way? It seemed to the kid that half an hour passed before the cigarette was finally lighted. The foreman absently blew out the match, snapped it in two, dropped the pieces on the floor and got up, reaching for his hat.

Babe lifted his head and looked full at the kid. He saw the kid's lips loosen, saw them quiver as the kid's eyes met his with shamed understanding.

The kid sat down on the bunk, his arms resting on his knees and his face bent to the floor. Babe! He would have shot Babe just on the strength of a broken match! If the foreman hadn't come right when he did, he'd have killed Babe Garner—the best friend he ever had in his life.

Babe! Clearing the table, scraping the plates just as if nothing had happened. Stopping now to make himself a cigarette while the kid watched him from under his long eye-lashes.

First Known Reference to the "Wandering Jew"

The first recorded reference to the legend of the "Wandering Jew" is made by an English chronicler in the year 1228. Roger of Wendover, a monk of St. Albans, who died in 1237, gave the story as having been received from an Armenian bishop while on a visit to England, and who claimed to have personally met the doomed man.

According to this version the wanderer's name was Cartaphilus, and he was a doorkeeper at Pilate's palace. When Jesus was being led forth to be crucified Cartaphilus contemptuously struck him on the neck, saying: "Go, Jesus; go on faster! Why dost thou linger?" Whereupon Jesus replied: "I go, but thou shalt remain waiting till I return." And under this decree the offender goes wandering through the world unable to die, and waiting for the coming again of Christ.

The Armenian bishop, according to the story, said that this wanderer dined with him shortly before the bishop left Armenia, and that he was now a penitent man; that he was baptized by Ananias, who also baptized Paul, under the name of Joseph. At the time of the Crucifixion he was thirty years of age, and when he completes a century he becomes faint, and on recovering consciousness he is again as young as he was when the doom was pronounced.

Bride Is In Hospital And Groom Is In Jail

DOTHAN, Ala., June 2.—Reported to have been shot in the left side of her chest with a shotgun by her husband of five months, Mrs. Kay Mitchell of Marianna is in a critical condition in a Dothan hospital. Kay Mitchell, her 23-year-old husband, is in jail at Marianna.

Mitchell is said to have shot his wife when she returned to their farm home to get her belongings. The wife left her husband three days ago to go to the home of her mother at Marianna.

Mrs. Mitchell is reported to have told authorities at Marianna that her husband had abused her, and that she believed he was insane, but opposed the suggestion of having him put under a peace warrant.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. It's gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

Few Groups of Eskimos Snow-House Dwellers

Snow houses are unknown to the Alaskan Eskimos, and in the Mackenzie delta region such dwellings are used only in emergencies.

The snow house has long been and still is the winter habitation of a number of Eskimo groups scattered eastward from Coronation gulf to Greenland. Even in that desolate region the snow house is regularly inhabited only when no other building materials are available. Some of these Eskimo hunters are very adept at constructing houses of snow for the temporary shelter of their families.

The Labrador Eskimos do not live in snow houses, and out of the 15,000 Eskimos in Greenland only a few hundred living around Cape York ever dwell in such shelters. Even among these the more usual winter dwelling consists of walls of earth or stone and rafters of stone slabs or the large bones of animals.

It is supposed that the Eskimos are descended from American aborigines who gradually worked their way into the Far North. Ancient ruins found throughout the region where snow houses are still regularly or occasionally used indicate that the house of stone, driftwood and whalebone is older than the igloo or hemispherical house built of blocks of snow laid in spiral courses.

Peasant Had Definite if Peculiar Grievance

One of the most familiar stories of Athenian history is that of Aristides and the peasant, says an article in a Boston paper. The ancient Athenians were just as human as any other people of later times, despite our tendency to regard them as supermen. Aristides, it will be remembered, was a great and good man whose policy was opposed to that of the brilliant and unscrupulous Themistocles.

The deadlock between the two leaders had to be broken by ostracism, which provided for the temporary banishment of the less popular leader. A peasant accosted Aristides and asked him to write the name of Aristides on his ballot. This was a vote for banishment, and the leader asked the peasant if Aristides had ever injured him. "No," the man answered, "but I am tired of hearing him called Aristides the just."

Viking History

In a little island in the middle of the Irish sea there is held every year on July 5 (representing midsummer day, old style), the promulgation of the Manx laws. The scene of the ceremony is Tynwald hill, in the Isle of Man.

It is a living relic of the important part played in the history of England by the Vikings, who from the close of the Eighth century made plundering excursions to the British isles, and then settled first in the Orkneys and Shetlands, later in the Hebrides, and thence gradually in the western isle of Scotland; in Ireland, where they were met by their brethren coming round by the south, and in Man, whence they spread eastward till they joined forces with their kinsfolk in York.

Warrior and Athlete

Babar, the magnificent warring oriental monarch of the Fifteenth century, was apparently tireless, and as proud of his skill as an athlete as of his ability as a general, says an article in the Boston Globe. Once, for the fun of it, he swam the Ganges, performing this stunt, as he explains in his memoirs, "in 33 strokes." At another time he ran around the battlements of a fortress with a man under each arm, leaping the embrasures. But these feats, added to his endless campaigns, weakened him, and he died suddenly at the age of forty-eight, leaving his new empire to a son whose ability was less conspicuous.

Wrote His Own Letters

Grover Cleveland never dictated any of his correspondence or public addresses, but always made the first draft in his own hand, recalls George F. Parker, quoting B. Cortelyou, in his "Recollections of Grover Cleveland." "During my stay at the White House as his executive clerk there was but one instance in which he dictated anything, and that was the beginning of a very brief note. . . . He dictated a few sentences of the letter and then, turning to the stenographer, said, 'Oh, you know what I want to find out; fix it up and bring it in to me.'"

Honolulu Smokeless

Honolulu is a smokeless city and for that reason it is rated clean or free from the smudge which has marred the structural appearance of New York and particularly Pittsburgh. Except for the chimneys of the gas and electric plants there are no chimneys in Honolulu. In the first place heating systems are not needed and the greater number of housewives or servants use gas for cooking. Some more cook outdoors and others use a charcoal stove which does not give out any smoke. This interesting Hawaiian city, it was pointed out, is not a profitable field for painters.

Curly Maple, Perhaps

Jimmy had a head covered with yellow curls. His mother fondly and frequently called him:

"You little curly head!"

The name linked itself in his brain with the emotion of affection.

One morning he climbed on his father's lap and hugging him tightly said:

"You little curly head!"

His father was entirely bald.

Mitchell when she went home, but were powerless to prevent the shooting, it was reported. Mitchell surrendered to officers and did not attempt to fire at any one else.

BAYER ASPIRIN is always SAFE

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

Bayer Tablets of Aspirin Genuine BAYER

Demand

UNLESS you see the name Bayer and the word genuine on the package as pictured above you can never be sure that you are taking the genuine Bayer Aspirin that thousands of physicians prescribe in their daily practice.

The name Bayer means genuine Aspirin. It is your guarantee of purity—your protection against the imitations. Millions of users have proved that it is safe.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin promptly relieves:

Headaches Neuritis
Colds Neuralgia
Sore Throat Lumbago
Rheumatism Toothache

No harmful after-effects follow its use. It does not depress the heart.

COATED TONGUE, BAD TASTE

"I suffered from heartburn and indigestion. My tongue would get coated, and I would have a bad taste in my mouth. I had gas pains, and if I belched it would be right bitter. My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did. After I had taken a few doses, I felt much better. The gas pains would stop, my mouth would feel clean, and my food would taste much better. I know that Black-Draught helped me."—Hubert Bailey, Gainesboro, Georgia.

ICE NOTICE!

It has been my pleasure during the past ten years to serve the people of Elba and surrounding territory. During which time I have rendered this service under some very trying circumstances, and I take this means of thanking you for your patronage, both as to ice and cold storage.

Due to the fact that some of my customers feel that I should reduce the price of ice in keeping with some of my competitors, I am doing so, reducing the price to fifty cents per hundred, and will try to give you the same kind of service at this price as long as I am able to operate and earn a small return on my investment.

Cordially Yours,

D. J. Lubert Ice & Cold Storage Co.

VOLUME XXXIV. ELBA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1931 NUMBER 53

REVIVAL AT METHODIST CHURCH CREATING INTEREST

The revival meeting which started at the Methodist Church in Elba Sunday morning is creating much interest. Large congregation are attending both the morning and evening services each day—11:00 o'clock a.m. and 7:45 p.m.

The meeting opened with a sermon by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Tubb, after which an unusually large number partook of the monthly sacrament of the Lord's Supper. At the night service Rev. J. Fletcher McLeod, presiding elder of the Troy District, preached one of his tremendously forceful sermons to a congregation that overflowed into the Sunday School room to the rear of the church auditorium. The large congregation was held spellbound throughout his eloquent discourse.

Twice daily on Monday and Tuesday Rev. McLeod delivered characteristic discourses in the peculiar manner that has made the eloquent man of God so dear to the hearts of the people of Elba and throughout the Troy District. His sermons are at once interesting, convincing and full of spirituality and his words are having a profound effect upon his hearers. He will speak twice daily on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the meeting coming to a close with Friday night's service.

A pleasing feature of this meeting is the large number of children who have been organized into a children's chorus under the directon of Mss Kathleen Talbot and Miss Louise Mitchell. The little folks sing with a zest that is truly inspiring. A large choir made up of voices from the various churches of Elba is leading the congregational singing and making the old gospel songs ring out in a way that is soul-inspiring. Mrs. W. M. Ringsdorf and Miss Madaline Strain at the pianos, Mr. Almon Strain, trombone, Haldane Strain, violin, and Roscoe Deal, clarinet, constitute an orchestra that furnishes sweet music.

There is no question but that what Elba, as well as other places throughout our land, need more than anything else is a good big alopathic dose of the old-time religion, and if any preacher is able to administer such a dose, one that will be taken with the hope of beneficial effect, we believe that Rev. J. Fletcher McLeod is that man. He is tremendously in earnest and puts every ounce of his power into his efforts to impress upon the minds of his hearers the supreme importance of getting right with God, beside which all other matters pale into insignificance. His argument is indisputable and the wonderful gift he possesses of holding the rapt attention of his audience while he hammers his points home and then clinches them, stamps him as a successful and effective evangelist.

The members of the other Elba churches are manifesting a fine spirit of cooperation in the revival meeting which augurs well for its success. It is to be hoped that much good will result from the meeting, which will close on Friday night.

Mrs. W. L. Horn and daughter, Miss Annette, of New Brockton visited Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Crook Saturday and Sunday.

Messrs. Lloyd Wilson, Robert Cooper, Louie Deal, Roscoe Deal and Leroy Miller were in attendance at the Confederate reunion in Montgomery last Friday.

Miss Ethel Louise Mitchell was a guest of friends and relatives in Montgomery last week.

Mrs. Mercer Rowe and children of Gadsden arrived in Elba Tuesday and are guests of Mrs. W. L. Coston on Davis Street.

Misses Annie Martha Adams and Dorothy Holman of Ozark visited friends in Elba Monday.

Miss Frances Shaw of Clio and Mr. Seales Dickinson were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Almon Strain Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Pete Lee of Centerville were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Lee, last week.

LIVE AT HOME PLAN IS PROVING A SUCCESS IN ALABAMA

That Alabama farmers are carrying out their "live at home" program and producing more food and feed crops was definitely established Saturday when the Department of Agriculture and Industries released figures showing that farmers have already shipped over 6,000 cars of truck crops this season and are harvesting one of the best oat crops produced in the State in many years.

It is estimated that over $3,000,000 has been placed in circulation in Alabama during the past eight weeks in return for the truck crops shipped from the State. In addition to bringing a large sum of money into Alabama these crops have furnished food for family use thus relieving much distress and suffering caused by the drouth last year.

Since over 6,000 cars have been shipped to date this season compared with 7,465 cars shipped the entire season last year, the truck crop movement is expected to be much larger this year than last.

The shipments to date this season include 1,134 cars of strawberries, 1,044 cars of cabbage, 480 cars of Irish potatoes, 298 cars of cucumbers and many cars of mixed beans and mixed vegetables. Watermelon, sweet potato, and green corn shipping is just starting. It is estimated there are 500 to 600 more cars of potatoes to move. The strawberry and cabbage movement is practically over while cucumbers will continue to move for about two more weeks.

Quality of the produce moving from the State is reported greatly improved over previous years. This is due to improved cultural methods and farmers paying more attention to producing quality products. Inspection service by the Agricultural Department has encouraged better quality as both purchaser and producer are benefited by the State and Federal inspection certificate.

Baldwin County is leading the State in carload truck crop shipments, having moved some 3,500 cars of potatoes, cucumbers and beans. The Irish potato shipments from the county this year have exceeded those of last year by over 1,000 when slightly less than 2,000 cars were shipped from the county.

Reports from South Alabama show that the truck crops are needing rain. Cucumbers and green corn are suffering.

The oat crop is one of the best produced in the State in recent years. This crop is supplementing the short feed crop of last year and is enabling farmers to feed their work stock without a big outlay of money for feed.

Another encouraging factor on Alabama farms is the fact that reports from over the State indicate more gardens with more vegetables than ever before.

BETSY ROSS CLUB FOR GIRLS MEETS—

DR. FOY E. BLUE IS BROUGHT TO ELBA FOR INTERMENT

Friends in Elba and throughout the county were deeply grieved Sunday when news was received of the death of Dr. Foy E. Blue, which occurred at a Birmingham hospital Saturday evening. He had been critically ill for several days and members of his family had been summoned to his bedside earlier in the week.

Dr. Blue was born and reared at Elba and was a son of the late Dr. J. D. Blue and Mrs. Blue, among Elba's most prominent pioneer citizens. He had countless friends here who are grieved at his passing.

The remains were brought to Elba Monday afternoon for burial in the family lot in Evegreen Cemetery, reaching here about four o'clock. The following account of his death and funeral services is taken from The Birmingham News:

Funeral services for Dr. Foy E Blue, 33, Bessemer eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, who died at a Birmingham hospital Saturday evening, were held from the First Presbyterian Church at 9:30 a.m. Monday with the Rev. T. J. Wharton officiating. The funeral cortege left immediately for Elba, where burial was to take place in the family cemetery at 5 p.m. with Jacobs in charge.

Dr. Blue's death followed a mastoid operation with blood poisoning and pneumonia complications. He was educated at University of Alabama and Emory University, later taking special courses in New York. He was associated with his brother, Dr. J. H. Blue, in the practice of his profession and had lived in Bessemer five years. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Bessemer Lions Club.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Betty Blue; three brothers, Dr. J. H. Blue, Bessemer; J. P. Blue, Montgomery, and Sam Blue, Elba; two sisters, Mrs. O. S. Rainer, Montgomery, and Mrs. Annie Waters, Elba.

Active pallbearers were Judge Frank Ball, Charles Schilleci, Dr. J. B. McCorstin, Dr. R. P. McTyeire, Jr., Jack Lacey, Stanley Hollock, Charles Long and S. G. Stephenson.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

Well, times are hard and getting harder every day. Just lots of folks are asking me what to do in order to save themselves from the poor house and I am giving them all the same answer—and that is, live at home, live within your means, save everything and sell enough to raise your spending money. Did you ever think about how much we waste? One of our greatest troubles is waste. We should save-save-save, and keep on saving. Fire has destroyed enough in Coffee County to make us all independent. Water has washed away enough that could have been saved to make our lands fertile; and the sunshine has destroyed enough machinery and equipment to farm all our lands. Fire is one of the worst enemies to man. It destroys and consumes and leaves nothing behind. Our trees are destroyed by fire, our lands are made poor, and every form of animal life is destroyed where fire goes. Nothing should be burned except where necessity demands it.

* * *

Water also destroys much for us. Our lands are washed and leached out by water. Our fertilizer is carried off to the river and we are left poor on account of it. Water is good to have and is very necessary, but we must control it and protect ourselves from it or it will destroy us.

* * *

Sunshine is a great factor in our health and with our crops, at the same time sunshine will destroy if you allow it to. The farmer who leaves his implements out in the sunshine will not have them very long. An automobile will not last long if left out in the sunshine. Our lands will bleach if allowed to stand out in the sunshine. Our fertilizer will be worthess if we allow it to remain out in the sunshine. We must protect what we have from fire, water and sunshine. Three of the most necessary things of life are fire, water and sunshine. The Lord gave them to us for certain purposes and they are each wonderful for those purposes, but we must guard against the abuse of their use. My advice, then, concerning these three things is as follows: Protect your property and lands from fire. Never allow fire on your farm except for a specific purpose. Protect your lands and all your implements from water. One rain can wash off soil that it took nature a thousand years to build. See that every tool and implement is protected from the rain. See that every piece of property is protected from the sunshine and that your lands do not bleach when you gather everything off the soil.

* * *

Sit down some time and think how much you and your family have paid to the waste caused by these three elements. Then make up your mind that you are through paying for things that can be avoided, and you will soon have things under control and you will be saving enough to make you independent in the years to come.

* * *

If we will all save what we have been wasting, and then do the things that cannot be done by the wholesale, we will be all right. I mean to do such things as require personal opinion. There is no better place in the world than right here in Coffee County, if we can only make the money. Well, we cannot compete with the sections than can produce in bulk, so we must turn to the things which require personal attention. I happened to hear a man say that he was selling about about one dollar's worth of eggs each day, and I wondered what he would make on his crop. You will not average twenty cents a day for the time you put in your cotton crop this year, at the same time the great majority of our folks are working day in and day out trying to make a crop of cotton.

* * *

I am glad to note that the folks about over the country have been saving all the huckleberries this year. It is true that they have sold as cheap as ten cents per quart, but that is not so bad compared with what you make farming. You can gather a lot of berries in a day. You will not average twenty cents per day for your work in your crop this year. Now right here is a good place to tell you about that fire trouble again. If you burn off your woods you cannot have berries. Fire destroys them all. If we could keep the fire out of the woods we could have enough berries to help out a lot. But you just wait until next Spring and some little smart guy will put fire out or bust.

* * *

It is now time for blackberries. Are you going to save them? The Lord gives them to us and I know he wants us to have them. You can make more picking blackberries at ten cents a gallon than you can make in your crop. Berries are free and I think we should save every one of them. It is also our duty to help create a market for them, and it is our duty to help the folks on your place get jars and sugar to use in putting them up.

* * *

Some of the boys preferred charges against Charlie Smart for having some scrub bulls in his pasture. I think Charlie heard about it and I have already gotten word that there is not a scrub bull in his pasture. Charlie is a good fellow and a hard worker. I know he does not want to do anybody any harm and that is why he arranged about those scrub bulls. Right in that neck of the woods is a place where the boys need a good Jersey bull and I want to help them get one. I believe Charlie Smart would keep him if the community would go in and get one. Any man who is quick enough to get on to what his neighbors are about to say about him and then correct it before they can get it in print is smart enough to have a fine Jersey bull and I want Charlie to have one.

* * *

Several readers of this section have talked to me about my work and some of them think that Farmer Jones is telling what the writer is doing. Well, I do tell some of the things, but as a rule I make it all up just as if Farmer Jones lived right out in the community where you live. I do not pretend

Two Outstanding Girls Win Free Auburn Trips

Miss Agnes Davis of Fairview and Miss Mabel Walker of Mt. Pleasant represented Coffee County at the gathering of 4-H Club girls in Auburn last week.

Miss Davis won the trip, all expenses paid and a small award in money, which is offered each year by the L. & N. railroad to the most outstanding girl in the county in leadership and club activities.

Miss Walker went as Coffee County Health Champion, having proven to be the most perfect girl, physically, in the 4-H Clubs of the county.

These young ladies also composed the county's judging team in foods.

The 4-H Short Course given each year in Auburn is for the purpose of developing leadership and more advanced training in club work.

The young ladies were accompanied to Auburn by Miss Allye Hughes, Coffee County Home Demonstration Agent.

MRS. MORGAN HOSTESS TO BRIDGE CLUB—

Mrs. Eura Adams of Ozark was the guest of Mrs. W. H. Simmons Monday.

Mrs. S. W. Spann and son, George Spann, of Dothan visited Mrs. Lamar Rainer on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bessie Hall and two children of Mobile are guests of Mrs. Hall's sister, Mrs. R. L. Cooper, this week.

Mrs. W. Bancroft has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Hall, in Mobile. She left the first of the week for Birmingham, where she will spend several weeks with her son, Mr. Joe Bancroft.

Mrs. M. Jones and daughter, Miss Bessie, have returned from a visit to relatives in Clio.

Mrs. Annie King and daughter, Miss Anita, of Andalusia are visiting relatives in Elba.

Mr. J. J. Farris has returned to his home in Montgomery after a visit to Elba relatives.

COUNTY AG'NT RAY DEPLORES LOSS IN NUMBER OF HOGS

INFECTIOUS NECROTIC ENERITIS OF SWINE—

When boiled down to every day terminology the above title is called SWINE FEVER, or SWINE TYPHOID. This disease is caused by a specific organism—Bacillus Suipestifer.

Swine fever is very much like hog cholera in general appearance. The disease may be acute or chronic. In acute form the diease is characterized by a high temperature, diminished appetite, arched back, blue color under the belly and either results in a chronic case or death. Swine fever is so variable in symptoms, lesions and intenstiy that it is often mistaken for cholera or something else by the layman. This disease may affect only a few animals in a herd at one time, they may recover or die before any others in the herd become affected. At other times they may all become affected at practically the same time. The temperature will run from 105 to 106 degrees farenheight during the acute stage of the disease, but in the latter stage of the disease it is not unusual to record subnormal temperatures.

The principal lesions to be found on post mortem examination is congestion of the lymph glands adjacent to the affected mucose of the large intestines and at times the small intestines and congestion of the kidneys. In the chronic stages necrotic lesions will be found throughout the entire intestinal tract.

Swine fever is not caused directly by filth, but unsanitary pens and runs are conducive to the spread of the disease. We have a lot of people that believe that a hog thrives on filth because he does not mind mud and filth, but if we are to raise a lot of hogs on a small area it is very important that sanitary methods be employed.

To control swine fever the hog raiser should provide clean water, clean runs and good, sound feed for them. Should he have some to get sick they should be isolated from the well ones and fed a sloppy mash. All dead animals should be either burned or buried. On premises where this disease has ever been one should make it his practice to vaccinate the pigs at two weeks old with a specially prepared vaccine and about weaning time give a second dose of this bacteria, at which time they should be vaccinated against hog cholera. Remember both of these remedies or vaccinations are preventives and not cures, and in order to get good or satisfactory results, must be done before any symptoms of the disease occur. If the Coffee County hog raiser will follow these recommendations his losses will be cut to a minimum. Also his cost of treatment will be cut to the minimum by having it done when the pigs are young.

One more thing I would like to mention before I make this too long without saying half as much as I would like to say on the above subject, is in regard to the 1930 farm census of Coffee County. In 1920 Coffee County had *51,000 head of hogs, in 1930 this number was down to 21,000. Think this over and see if this is as it should be. Somehow I am inclined to believe the county would be in better shape if this number had been increased to 81,000 instead of dropping off 30,000 head in those ten years.

Four County Convention To Organize At M'Kenzie

The Four County Sacred Harp singers of Butler, Crenshaw, Conecuh, and Covington Counties will organize what is known as the Four County Convention at McKenzie, Ala., school auditorium on Wednesday, June 24th, 1931.

This convention is looked upon as being one of the largest and best in the State. All singers and lovers of Sacred Harp music are invited to attend.

The convention will be self-supporting. Everybody bring their book and a sandwich and we will have a good time.

Mr. W. M. Brunson spent Friday in Montgomery.

Farmer's Wife Tells Of Visit To Clay County

Editor Clipper:—

Please allow me space in your good paper for a few lines from this community. Everything seems to be moving along nicely and the people are getting along fine with their work. The crops are small for the time of year, owing to the cool weather we have had. Most of the farmers have the grass out of their crops,and everything seems to need a rain, especially the early feed crops. It seems like it will be too bad for us to miss a feed crop through here again this year, but when we do our part that is all we can do. We are just hoping to have a rain before it is too late.

We are anxious to hear "Farmer Jones" and "Sallie" tell us about the grand time they had at the reunion in Montgomery last week. My husband, part of the children and myself have just come back from Clay County where we spent about a week visiting our daughter and family. We saw a lot of things, as we were never that far away from home before. Surely had a fine trip and a nice time. I don't think our men ought to think because we are women and children that we don't like to go anywhere.

We saw those large rocks we have heard so much about, some of them as large as a common house. We went into one large enough to cook and eat in. I don't think anyone would regret what it would cost them to go see that county, but I believe I had rather be a cotton farmer than to make that my home.

We also saw that pretty dairy farm at Montgomery. That caught my eye. We saw a lot of mighty fine cows and calves and I would like to have stopped to look all that over, but as we didn't have any spare time, just had to keep traveling.

I am getting along fine with my canning and I know "Sallie" is, too. I hope everybody in good old Coffee County will keep a record of what they can this summer, and tell us through The Clipper when they finish and show "Farmer Jones" how we appreciate his advice in the "Cow Pen." Now "Sallie" I am going to see those turkeys the first opportunity I have. Best wishes to The Clipper and its readers.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING—

The Epworth League met at the Methodist church on Wednesday night of last week at 8:30 for their regular business meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Evelyn Bryan. After the meeting was formally opened the following program was carried out:

Bible Reading—Mary June McDowell.

Prayer—Mrs. Mike Mardox.

Roll was called and Minutes read by Roscoe Deal, secretary.

Business Discussion by Members

Discussion on Installing Family Prayer—Mrs. Maddox.

Plans were made for the Union meeting which was held at New Brockton last Friday night.

Ned Department Leaders were read by the President.

The League adjourned, repeating the League Benediction.

Reported by Frances Talbot.

ROYAL AMBASSADORS MET MONDAY NIGHT—

The Royal Ambassadors held their regular meeting Monday night with Quinton Smith presiding and Recorder Lloyd Prescott at his station.

The meeting was opened with a song, "Give Of Your Best To The Master." Scripture reading by Mrs. Folsom, followed by sentence prayers. The program for the meeting was from the World Comrade. All of the 14 boys present voted to have the picnic next Thursday night on account of the protracted meeting at the Methodist church. The picnic is being given by the Baptist W. M. U.

The meeting was dismissed by prayer by Quinton Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Winston of Pensacola, Fla., are spending the week in Elba with relatives.

Miss Ruby Spurlin has returned from a visit to her aunt, Mrs. Leon Revel, in Montgomery.
